

Meet Our Clinical Staff

The caring and experienced staff at RHCS s are passionate about helping people with addictive disorders and have a clinical scope of practice that allows them to help clients work through deeper issues after they are sober. Our counselors recognize that if they are to expect individuals to continue on in their personal development then they too must be role models of that same commitment and professionally stay committed to ongoing education.

Curtis Buzanski, MA, RAS, MFT I:

Curtis Buzanski has been working in the substance abuse field with teens and young adults for over 7 years. Curtis is a Registered Addiction Specialist and earned his BA in Psychology. Currently, he is finishing up his Master's degree in Marriage and Family Therapy. Curtis brings the special gift of not only the right education, but his personal experience with addiction and recovery. He became sober at the young age of 17 and has over 13 years of sobriety himself. He maintains a solid foundation in the 12 step community and stays committed to ongoing personal growth. "I view the family as a system, much like the gears in a clock. That family system is the primary and, almost always, the most powerful system to which humans belong."

Jon Daily, LCSW, CADC II:

Our clinical director, Jon Daily LCSW, CADC II co-authored the 2006 book "How to Help Your Child Become Drug Free." He instructs a graduate school course on chemical dependency for the University of San Francisco. He has been an instructor for UC Davis and Sacramento County Probation. In addition to teaching, Jon has given multiple local and national television (The Today Show) and radio presentations regarding substance use issues. Currently, he is writing on the topic of understanding the role of attachment, interpersonal neurobiology with addiction and recovery. Jon also brings the experience of becoming sober at 20 years old and staying committed to ongoing personal growth since then.

Justin Olson, MS

In addition to receiving his Master degree in therapy, Justin has worked for the past several years as a counselor, crisis counselor and case manager. Mostly his focus has been working with teens, young adults, and their families with substance use disorders and various developmental issues. Justin also brings the gift of personal experience and commitment to growth through the ACA 12-step meetings. Justin is inspired by music, the arts and the philosophies of Jung and attachment theory. Compassion, humility and authenticity permeate his approach. "I feel that there is no better tool than drawing upon the innate reservoir of strengths within each individual to drive the counseling process.

Jeff Parrish, BA, RRW

Jeff holds a BA in both Psychology & Philosophy in addition to being a Registered Recovery Worker in the addiction field. Jeff is currently finishing up graduate school with the goal of becoming an LCSW. He has been a research assistant in neuroscience and research assistant on the link between attachment, interpersonal neurobiology and addiction. Jeff brings the special gift of personal experience with addiction and recovery as well. He become sober at the young age of 15 and quickly saw the need for a "Young Peoples" 12-step meeting in his community, so he helped start one. He has maintained a strong commitment to the 12-step community and personal growth. Finally Jeff has worked as a clinical social worker and treatment coordinator for the chronically mentally ill at a residential program.

Amy Rose, RRW

Since 2005, Amy Rose has been working in the specialized field of adolescent and young adult substance abuse treatment. She brings zeal, clarity and a heartfelt desire to work with individuals and families as she personally understands the grips of addiction and how freeing recovery can be. Getting sober at only 17 years old, she understands the unique challenges for young people and their family. For the past 8 years, Amy has maintained a solid foundation in the 12 step community and stays committed to ongoing personal growth and education. Amy understands the ins and outs of this issue both experientially and academically. "My personal belief is that our greatest glory is not in never falling but in rising every time we fall."
